Pampering Mom Baby Shower

Throw a pampering Mom shower this can be an excellent respite from the doctor visits, morning sickness, water retention and the many other things that can plague an expectant mother.

Let's not forget about the guests either since a Pampering Mom shower can be a great time for the guests to have some much needed pampering too. It does take a bit of planning and decision making on what pampering means but with our theme outlined below, it can be fairly simple.

A Pampering Mom shower can be held at home with a makeup consultant visit or anyone that does home facials, massage or manicures. There are many companies out there that do this sort of thing so just shop around for the best one for you. If you prefer having it outside of home, plan a party at a spa. Check with the spa about their policies and also if they offer a group rate. It may be that many spas have not even imagined the potential of hosting small parties in their facilities and may jump at the opportunity.

So what can be better than spending a day wrapped in cotton robes and being massaged, wrapped and pampered until you are relaxed!
